EASY TO GET AWAY TO SOUTH AMERICAN PORTS

Officer of Geier Points Out That Nitrate Ships Would Afford
Safe Means of Leaving Territory if Desire Arose

Although the commanders of various United States navy yards in charge of interned German war vessels or commerce raiders are keeping a closer watch on their officers and crews because of the recent numerous violations of parole by the officers and men, authorities at the naval station here seem to be putting the crew and officers of the interned German cruiser Geier on their good behavior, and trusting them to keep their parole.

Recent escapes from the Norfolk, Virginia, navy yard of German sailors and officers from Teutonic craft interned there, have caused orders for a more strict watch of the men's movements to be instituted. The steamer Zealandia was only a short time ago stopped off the coast of Mexico and searched by a British cruiser, for Germans who were supposed to have escaped from the Norfolk yard.

Asked if any orders to keep a more strict watch on the Geier's crew had been received here this week, American officials at the naval station here said today they had heard nothing of any such instructions, and thought there would be none of that character issued.

Interviewed as to the possibilities of escape from Honolulu to the mainland, an officer of the Geier, with a very confident air, today said it would be extremely easy to get away on nitrate ships from this port to South America, although the United States, Canada and Australia offer no shelter to escaping German officers or crews.

"I have chances to get away about twice a week," he declared, "as well known here as I am. For our crew, it would be easy, although they could not get to San Francisco because they do not know how to speak English, and hence could not sign on as crew members."

"At first the American navy officers in Honolulu kept a strict watch, but now—well—there is no one to look over outgoing sailors to see if they are perhaps men from our ship getting away."

"If I were to tell the men of my ship one day that I was going to escape, I could be 100 or 200 miles at sea the next, on one of those nitrate ships bound for Chile, before the navy yard people would know I was missing."

"If I wanted to leave I could get away, be sure. But we are interned and I do not like to try it. It is not because I could not escape should I desire."

ARMY CAPTAIN TO GIVE DRILL TO BOY SCOUTS

Wilder Tells Ad Club Members of Ambitious Plans for Work
During Winter

Important plans for Boy Scout development in Hawaii were announced yesterday by James A. Wilder, Scout Commissioner, and emphasized today in the course of a snappy talk he gave at the Ad Club luncheon. Mr. Wilder has just returned from an extended stay in the eastern states, in the course of which he took in several large scout features and also attended the Plattsburg military camp, and the recital today of his experiences, plentifully besprinkled with humor, proved a real Ad Club treat.

J. B. White of Kansas City, Mo., one of the best known conservationists in America, told of his impressions of Hawaii, and the hopes for the future that he believed would be realized here. He said:

"I am very much surprised that the United States has not annexed Hawaii. I thought that Hawaii would annex the United States." Mr. White told of the kindness of the people of the islands and stated that the local Ad Club was far in advance of many of the big ad clubs on the mainland.

Mr. White said that although he was a lumberman, he believed thoroughly in conservation of lumber, of the soil and of men, and said that people should look to the future.

Military drill by a regular army officer was announced by Wilder last evening as a feature for scout-masters and first-class scouts, which begins next Saturday at the National Guard armory, and will continue through the winter. Commissioner Wilder says:

"Beginning next Saturday at 1 o'clock Capt. J. E. Bell of Fort Shafter will drill a platoon of scout-

Fort Shafter's New Commandant Comes Tomorrow

Col. Chatfield Sends Wireless
He is Aboard Kiyo Maru;
Was Not Expected

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
FORT SHAFTER, T. H., Nov. 17.—A wireless was received at Fort Shafter this morning from Col. Walter H. Chatfield, 2nd Infantry, stating that he will arrive at daybreak tomorrow on the Kiyo Maru.

Col. Chatfield was ordered here in September to command the 2nd Infantry, relieving Col. Francis H. French, who was ordered to the mainland. He was due to arrive in October with the 27th Infantry on the transport Buford but that transport has been marooned at Panama and the colonel has been unable to join his command. The wireless came as a great surprise to all, as he was not expected for some time.

The colonel evidently caught the liner at Panama for Honolulu. He is accompanied by Mrs. Chatfield. Lieut.-col. B. W. Atkinson has been in command at Shafter.

Col. Chatfield is an officer well known in Hawaii, and he has a host of friends here who will welcome his arrival. The colonel entered the army as an enlisted man in 1878 and was appointed a second lieutenant in the 6th Infantry in 1880, promoted to first lieutenant, 18th Infantry, in 1890; captain in 1898, major in 27th Infantry in 1905, lieutenant-colonel in 1911 and colonel in May, 1914. He has recently been on duty in Texas with the 27th Infantry. The colonel will retire for age in March of 1916 as he will then be 64 years of age.

M'CARN AWAITS REPORT OF JURY ON JAIL SCANDAL

Federal Authorities May Then Conduct Probe Into Alleged Deal in Opium

If J. J. McGrath was in the actual custody of the local federal authorities when he made his sensational escape from the county jail, or if he and George A. ("Bert") Bower engineered an opium deal while on one of their temporary leaves from the jail, as alleged in the story of Fred Gough, then there are grounds for a federal investigation of the county jail scandal, in the opinion of District Attorney Jeff McCarn.

Mr. McCarn was somewhat reticent today when asked regarding his opinion in the matter. He stated that he desired to let the present investigation by the territorial grand jury take its course; that he did not wish to take any action which might "go over the heads" of the territorial tribunal. He intimated strongly, however, that he will take steps in the matter should sufficient grounds be disclosed.

The district attorney pointed out that if McGrath was under bond of his federal court case when he made his escape, there would hardly be grounds for an investigation by the federal authorities. On the other hand, however, if McGrath was in actual federal custody, and if he was aided to escape by the jail officials or others, then there would be grounds. Mr. McCarn added that the federal statutes provide a punishment of imprisonment of not more than two years, or a fine of not more than $2000, or both, in cases where federal prisoners are aided to escape.

Another ground for investigation, said the district attorney, would be proof that any opium deal or deals were engineered by McGrath, Bower or others while on "temporary leave" from the jail.

The theory that McGrath was in federal custody at the time of his escape is knocked out to some extent by a statement by Marshal J. J. Smiddy, who says that, according to his records, on April 25, McGrath, who had previously been released on bond, was taken into custody by virtue of a bench warrant issued out of federal court, and committed to Oahu prison until further orders from the court.

While in such custody, says the marshal, McGrath was transferred to the territorial authorities and placed in the city jail to await action in his case in circuit court, which had precedence over the federal court case. It was while in the custody of the territorial officials that McGrath made his getaway, says the marshal.

In the opinion of Marshal Smiddy, McGrath was solely in the custody of the territory, and not even nominally in federal custody, when he escaped. A meeting of the territorial grand jury will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the judiciary building, at which time it is expected its investigation of the city jail scandal will be resumed. The city attorney's office does not expect a report tomorrow, however.

WILL ASCERTAIN CAUSE OF LOSS IN PINE SHIPMENTS

Of 1000 Crates Shipped in Wilhelmina, 28 Per Cent
Spoiled in Transit

MARKETING DIVISION FINDS
BANANA TRADE PROFITABLE

Now Is Filling Coast Order for 2000 Bags of Hawaiian-
Grown Rice

Until the territorial marketing division can ascertain the reasons for losses sustained in recent shipments of fresh pineapples to the mainland, future shipments will be comparatively small, according to Supt. A. T. Longley.

Improper packing in Honolulu, or the "cooking" or spoiling of the fruit in the steamer holds, due to close pilchings, are among Superintendent Longley's theories regarding the deterioration. On November 5, 1000 cases of pineapples were shipped to San Francisco in the Wilhelmina. During the voyage 28 per cent of the shipment spoiled. This was pointed out in a wireless message received by the division today from W. A. Anderson, the San Francisco agent.

Two crates shipped in the Wilhelmina containing pines wrapped in excelsior and paper, a new experiment, went through with a waste of only 5 per cent.

"If we can cut the waste down to 5 per cent we can continue shipping the usual large quantities of pines," said Superintendent Longley. During last July the sales of fresh pineapples on the mainland by the division netted the local growers from $3 to $5 a ton. The August returns and the returns on shipments since that month, have not yet been received. According to Mr. Longley they will not be much better than the July returns.

There continues to be a good market for the Pacific coast and in the East for fresh Hawaiian-grown pines. "If we can eliminate the waste there will be a good profit in the fresh pineapple business," says Superintendent Longley, "unless there is something that cannot be over-

FOSTER L. DAVIS NAMED CLERK OF FEDERAL COURT

Appointed Today to Succeed
A. E. Murphy, Who Died
Several Weeks Ago

Foster Leslie Davis was appointed by judges Sanford B. Dole and Charles F. Clemens today as clerk of the local U. S. district court, to succeed A. E. Murphy, who died a few weeks ago following an illness of nearly a year.

Mr. Davis was sworn in by Judge Dole in the presence of Judge Clemens, several court officers and the members of the trial jury. There was applause as the title of the matter before the court was read. A bond of $10,000, furnished by the new clerk with the National Surety Company as surety, was approved by the judges.

Following his graduation from McKinley high school in 1905, Mr. Davis has held several responsible positions in Honolulu and, in 1909, was appointed stenographer in the office of the federal court clerk. On December 9, 1909, he was appointed second deputy clerk, and, on March 19, 1911, first deputy clerk. He is one of the best known and best liked court officials in the territory, is a skilled office man and is well qualified for the duties into which he entered today. Mr. Davis was the federal judges' choice from among a list of at least 12 applicants for the position.

Although Clerk Davis has not yet appointed his two deputies, it was stated upon good authority today that William Ladd Rosa, who has been second deputy clerk since 1912, will be appointed first deputy. Mr. Rosa also is a graduate of McKinley high school.

SERBIA'S FATE KITCHENER SAID TO BE ADVOCATE OF QUOTA SYSTEM

Does Not Wish to Force Conscription But Would Revive Suspended Plan of Division-
ing England Into Military Districts

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON.—The quota system which Lord Kitchener is said to advocate as a compromise between the present voluntary enlistment system and conscription is a historic method of raising troops, for it existed in England from Saxon times down to the year 1832. It is now merely suspended, not dead.

By the quota system, Great Britain would be divided into military districts, each of which is required to send its quota of a required number of recruits. It is a form of compulsion but a democratic form that stood the test of eight centuries. Its special merits are its appeal to local patriotism and its civil control. Each locality has the power to enforce enlistment if other means fail, but a large number of additional voluntary recruits will be found just because the affair is managed by the civil authorities and the appeal is more personal and less emotional than by the military recruiting with their bands and speech-making actors.

There are many statutes on the English books relating to the quota system, which can be enforced at any time by an order of the privy council with the approval of parliament. Some changes were made from the old methods in 1787 when the various counties were instructed to proportion their quota among the various parishes where the men, in case of necessity, were to be chosen by ballot. This law placed the age of service from 18 to 30 years, exempting all men with more than one child born in wedlock. Forces for the Napoleonic wars were thus raised. In 1832 the old militia passed from the control of the counties to the war office, and the system of district selection was allowed to lapse.

ARRESTED MAN TELLS POLICE OF HOP JOINT

Spectacular Raid Follows Nabbing of Korean Who Robbed
Home of A. L. C. Atkinson

Arrested at Alea last night by detectives from headquarters here, Kim Yeun Chan, a Korean, confessed to the theft of $500 worth of jewelry and clothes from the home at Puuloa of A. L. C. Atkinson of Honolulu, and produced most of the loot.

Among the things recovered are a number of pins, a Masonic watch chain and a suitcase full of clothes, all of which were taken when the Atkinson home was entered by Chan through a side door nearly a month ago. During his visit to the Atkinson home Chan stopped long enough to have a light lunch, demonstrating the delicacy of his taste by eating only caviar and pol.

Information that the man was working in a camp at Alea came to Chief McDuffie yesterday, and with three officers he went at once to the camp, where Kim Yeun Chan was found. Chan admitted the theft and said that he robbed the house because he had no money and was hungry.

Chan in turn gave the officers information which led to the raiding of a supposed opium den on Aala street, back of the Chinese theater, and the arrest of Ah Chong.

Kim told the detectives that he sold two of Atkinson's pins to Ah Chong, who, he said, sold cocaine to soldiers and also sometimes sold opium. Detectives Wo, Kellett and Apana went to Chong's place, and, being familiar with his habit of vanishing through a back window, endeavored to surround the shack, but before they could all get located a stream of colored soldiers of the 25th Infantry began to flow through a rear window, alight swiftly in the dark.

When the detectives broke into the room they found Ah Chong, who stoutly denied that he had any drugs. One of the officers saw Chong throw something in a pot of water and fished out a small can containing a powder resembling cocaine which will be analyzed in order to ascertain what it is. After a casual examination Dr. R. G. Ayer said that he did not think it was cocaine or morphine.

One pipe with some yen shee in it was found in Chong's place. If he is not tried for selling drugs a charge of receiving stolen goods may be placed against him.

First Joint War Council Held With Premier Briand And Joffre Among
French Leaders Present

LONDON, England, Nov. 17.—The fate of Serbia is now a matter of hours, and those hours will witness some of the most desperate fighting of the entire European war.

Heavily reinforced, the Bulgarians on the north as well as in southern Serbia are winning steadily, and there is no indication that the French troops which were forced to fall back just north of the Greek border have been able again to take the offensive. On the other hand the Bulgarians in rapid succession have taken Tetovo and Krusevo and forced Babuna pass. The Serbians made a desperate last-stand fight to hold the pass but Bulgarian artillery drove them from their positions.

Monastir, the main city of Macedonian Serbia, in the south, is again threatened by the rapid approach of the Bulgarian forces and the consuls have left, fearing that the city will be bombarded in a few hours.

LONDON, England, Nov. 17.—Hope for possible aid from Greece for the Allies revives with the report that King Constantine desires to discuss the situation with Lord Kitchener, who is now near the Dardanelles. England is holding the Greek merchant vessels to their home ports, and meanwhile the Greek minister of Marine, Stratos, is en route to Germany on a special mission.

Four British Ministers Visit France

PARIS, France, Nov. 17.—A grave mission of joint counsel, the details of which are kept secret, has brought Premier Asquith, Foreign Minister Sir Edward Grey, Minister of Munitions Lloyd-George and First Lord of the Admiralty Balfour to France. It was learned today that all four are here and it is believed that they are attempting to unite all the efforts of France and Great Britain to prosecute the campaign successfully.

They have met the new premier, Aristide Briand; Gen. Gallieni, Commander-in-chief Joffre and Admiral Lacaze in the first of the series of joint war councils which are to be held.

Princeton Student Is Released

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Word has been received here that Kenneth Triest, the former Princeton student who was arrested in England and held as a spy, has been released and will start for America on Saturday, accompanied by his father, who went to London to work for his son's release. Triest is said to have confessed that he was a spy and his father at once stated that his son's mind was unbalanced. He brought such strong proofs that the state department interested itself and represented to the British foreign office that Triest was not responsible for his suspicious actions.

Trying To Block New Submarine Move

PARIS, France, Nov. 17.—Intimating that German submarines are violating the territorial neutrality of Spain to aid their campaign against the Allies, the British foreign office has requested the Spanish government to have a careful watch kept of the Spanish coasts, especially the coast of Morocco. Great Britain says that this is to be done to prevent the Germans from supplying their submarines at night from stations on the shore.
